Kadi brought another case against this situation. The General Court promptly applied the precedent set down in Kadi I, and in the case known as Kadi II, it struck down the relisting of Mr Kadi. On appeal, the Grand Chamber of the Court of Justice of the European Union (the “CJEU”) upheld this General Court decision on 18 July 2013.

The Kadi case: Response by Juliane Kokott and Christoph ... This article takes stock of the emerging scholarship on the European Court of Justice's 2008 Kadi decision and seeks to make sense of the court's apparent evasiveness towards international law. The article argues that Kadi is best understood as an act of civil disobedience prompted by the UN Security Council's misapplication of foundational principles of the international order.
